Plenary program:

The plenary program will be available soon. Nationally and internationally renowned keynote speakers will give presentations on the theme «Education 5.0? The Future of Learning – The Future of Schools». What do we expect from our education system, and what will learning in the school of the future look like? If Education 4.0 can be understood as learning and education processes in an age of digital change, what is needed in education? And what comes next, what might Education 5.0 be like? Is it time to consider a change of focus in education towards a stronger emphasis on personality development, basic values, empowerment, democracy and collective responsibility? Are responsibility, participation in democracy and environmental stewardship elements that need to be increasingly emphasized as primary concerns in pedagogical thinking? How can we successfully promote education? What responsibilities do educators have, and what responsibilities rest with the broader society?
